

Nature podcast

You're the writer and host!

In addition to virtual phone calls and online chat sessions, you can stay connected to people by creating your very own nature or animal-themed podcast. You can create episodes as frequently as you want and don't need any fancy microphones or headphones, just check with an adult before you start sending files via text or email.

1

Technology needed:

Smart phone or tablet to record audio file (voice memo on Iphone, voice recorder on Android).

2

What to talk about?

Write a script or find someone in your circle to interview.

Pick a topic that you love or you want to learn more about.

3

Record yourself talking about what you learned or you asking your guest questions and share the audio file with family and friends.
